

ABSTRACT

A protective case for a mouthguard has a base, a cover hinged to the base, and a partition on the base adapted to engage the mouthguard and to prevent movement of the mouthguard within the case. Alternatively, the protective case has a pivoting
5 mouthguard holder that is spring-biased so as to raise the mouthguard away from the base when the cove is opened.